

My leaves are variegated which means that they each have more than one colour. If my leaf stalks get broken, they ooze a milky sap

Who Am I?

My fruits are pairs of winged seeds called samaras which are green when young and brown when older

I have bright green flowers which grow in clusters

My wood is hard, strong and pale cream in colour and is often used to make furniture

Trees like me are often planted in towns and cities because not only are we beautiful to look at, we provide excellent shade and are tolerant of pollution

A fast growing tree, I can attain heights of around 60 feet and my branches and foliage form a very dense canopy

I am deciduous which means that I lose my leaves in winter

Can you spot any of my features and work out who I am?
